Role infirmier dans la relation soignant soigné

The situations of violence against nurses are more and more presented at the hospital. These have an impact on the attentive relationship, positively or negatively. My research question is: "How can infirmary posture have an impact on caregiver caregiver in front of a violent patient in the emergency room? « The methodology used is based on an exploratory interview carried out with a picture of A healthy company on violence with the emergency room. Reading a book of relative the attentive relationship. Manoukian, Therefore, the realization of two semi-structured interviews with nurses working in the emergency room. The posture of the infirmary has an impact on the Caregiver-caregiver in front of a violent patient through the concept of context and complete (knowledge, know-how, patient. The absence or not mobilization of nursing understandings Associated with a favorable context it can lead to an "unsuccessful" posture (aggressive, ignorance of the patient). The latter has a negative impact on the Caregiver's report; alternative, exacerbation of patient violence. The realization of this work MÃ ¢ â, ¬ â "¢ has made aware of the importance of â" $\phi$ which should always be renewed and maintained over time. This end study work is the culmination of a reflection that was able to shoot from mine Training pension. In fact, it is during the second semester, during a stage in the care and adaptation of follow-up (SSR) that I met some difficulties to take charge of a minor's sexual assault author. So I would like to work around Caregiver-Caregiver with patients with health care. This situation has aroused the following question in me: how is the impact of caregiver-caregiver when the patient is péfile? For this reason, I have created five semi-structured interviews in various assistance services. I then analyzed them according to the clinical method, respecting the singular and qualitative character of these. The collection of MÃ ¢ â,¬ â "¢ has allowed us to have a different vision of CAREANTANT assistance, I have seen that these situations did not trigger the caregivers regardless of their place of exercise, their age and their experience. I realized that I had a sensitive point that caregivers seemed wrong with the idea of talking about it. Words: attentive-caregiver, infermerists, care, patient, pity. Attention, plagiarism is responsible for pursuit. This work faces the theme of the caregiver movement with a painful Vech. With my second year of study, I could not see through my experience that the caregiver motions linked to a painful Vech could be disabled in the exercise of her. As a future nurse, I wanted to know how much caregiver could wear and the total in difficulty, the question of starting my end study is: to what extent the nurse's motions reporting in painful vehicle that influences the caregiver / relationship Attentive? Comparing the analysis of semi-directive interviews carried out withdrawal In my oral research, I was able to conclude that these motions can modify the caregiver / relationship Attentive? but, if the nurses assuring the continuing care, it seems that it remains a psychological suffering. This goes to my research: an access to official devices, proposed by the struttura where the nursing works, to facilitate the management of its motions, the help to tame things. Motionally difficult and to have more professional posture. CLEAR WORDS: Careful relationship, Emozioni, counter-transfer. Attentzione, the plagiarism is liable to legal proceedings arriving at the end of these three years of study, in connection with my professional project, I chose to effect my end job of end of the Tudes on Relazionanels in Sitazioni urgently emergency. "How can the pre-hospitalized relazione be careful in sitazioni be a resource for FDI in the care of a Paziate? TO". To do this, I have first made documentary research and then an investigation with professionals. This investigation is debuted by means of semi-structured interviews with the help of a maintenance guide. The analysis of the interviews showed that the Relazionanel was very important in practice in presto. In addition, the Emergency Professional Experience would facilitate the creation of a Relaziona at an Emergency Position in the Predicier. Finally for FDIs, it seems necessary to combine Tecnica care and relationanel care would be a real capital gain in the prehospital management. A stage in a second year's Né Phroly service. It is a deed of care conducted by a patient who has the treatment of a peer dialysis. This situation questioned because it is the patient who explained the care. Following the exploration phase the question of the departure that is released is: How can I learn a caregiver from a patient with a chronic disease that received a rule of good practices? I studied four concepts mainly that are: learning, therapy, chronic disease and good professional practice. To describe these concepts, I used articles, books and websites. From these concepts, different research hypotheses are distinguished, such as: nursing learns and builds their knowledge on chronic coordination disease with experienced patients. Professional practice is an impact by experienced patients. Patient therapy education is a collaborative work between the patient with chronic disease and health professionals. If you should investigate this theme, I would have used a clinical method with certificates for caregivers and patients.
